Auction Sale Rev. Dr. A. H. Bradford on Sunday tendered his resignation as pastor of the Congregational church in Rutland, where he had been since Jan. 1, 1913. Dr. Bradford last year received a call from the Central Congregational church at Providence, R. I., but refused to accept. After searching for months to find a man suited to their needs, the Providence church has again called Dr. Bradford and he has accepted.

Charles W. Devino, for 40 years in the blacksmithing business in Winooski, died the village of South Ryegate, Vt., on there Sunday of apoplexy. Mr. Devino was one of the original members of the Winooski Sherman band when it was first organized in 1870, and he remained at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the followmember until he went to Franklin, ing described N. The Methodists are to try out a new method for rural churches, and the first move is the sending of Rev. M. Will Russell of Poultney to take charge of church at Monkton. This church and the ones at Barnumville and East the farm, formerly occupied by Jos. Mc Monkton, which are on the same circuit, ave been served by supplies for a number of years, each one remaining for a short time, necessarily, and as Mr. Russell has had large experience as an evangelist, pastor and gospel singer, it is thought he will be able to build up the churches and give them the needed support. Extra financial assistance will also be given, if needed, to make them strong
